

Privacy Policy

Effective: November 20, 2020

Introduction

Law Offices of Maryam M. Golbarg, P.C. (“we” or “us”) values its visitors’ privacy. This Privacy Policy is effective as of November 20, 2020; it describes how we may collect, protect, use, and share information gathered from or about you, and helps you understand our online information security practices. For additional details, please review our Terms of Use.

Consent to this Privacy Policy

By using or accessing this Website you consent to this Privacy Policy and that to be bound by it, including your consent to our use and disclosure of information about you in the manner described herein. This Privacy Policy applies to everyone, including, but not limited to visitors, users and others, who wish to access or use the Website.

Information way may collect and store

It is always up to you whether to disclose personally identifiable information to us, although if you elect not to do so, we reserve the right not to register you as a user or provide you with any products or services. We collect and store your personal identifiable information if you:

- Provide them to us by inputting them into our Website or any other form of communication, including but not limited to, electronic mail, regular mail, and phone calls;
- Purchase one of our products or retain our services;
- Subscribe to our newsletter;
- Complete an application form;
- Participate in one of our surveys or transact other business with us.

“Personally identifiable information” means information that can be used to identify you as an individual or business, including but not limited to:

- Your name, email address, phone number, home address, billing address, and shipping address;
- Your company name, its user ID and password, its email address, business address or other information;
- Credit card information;
- Social Security number;
- Any account-preference information you provide us;
- General information regarding your tax problems;
- Certain personal information, such as your date of birth, employment information, certain credit card and loan account information, and any information that you choose to input in the contact page of our Website;
- Information regarding referral source that brought you to our Website;
- Your computer’s domain name and IP address, indicating where your computer is located on the Internet;

- Session data for your login session, so that our computer can ‘access’ to yours while you are logged in.

Use of information we collected

If you do provide personally identifiable information to us, either directly or through a reseller or other business partner, we will:

- Not sell or rent it to a third party without your permission. Unless you opt out, we may use your contact information to provide you with information we believe you need to know or may find useful, such as for example news about our services and products and modifications to the Terms of Service;
- Take commercially reasonable precautions to protect the information from loss, misuse and unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration and destruction;
- Not use or disclose the information except:
 - As necessary to provide services or products you have ordered, such as for example by providing it to a carrier to deliver products you have ordered;
 - In other ways described in this Privacy Policy or to which you have otherwise consented;
 - In the aggregate with other information in such a way so that your identity cannot reasonably be determined (for example, statistical compilations);
 - As required, to comply with the law, applicable regulations, governmental and quasi-governmental requests, judicial proceedings, court orders or subpoenas, search warrant, for example, in response to a subpoena or search warrant;
 - To outside auditors who have agreed to keep the information confidential;
 - As necessary to enforce our legal notices, other agreements and the Terms of Use;
 - As necessary to protect the rights, safety, or property of Law Offices of Maryam M. Golbarg, P.C., its users, or others. This may include for example exchanging information with other organizations for fraud protection and/or risk reduction.

We may also use the information we collect about you in order to, but not limited to:

- Send a confirmation to you, if necessary;
- Enroll you into programs or services which you are interested;
- Open files and establish accounts, and retain information you send us, via including but not limited to, your correspondence, emails, faxes, or telephone calls, and retain these information in your customer file. We may, over time, delete these records as permitted by law;
- Contact you for help in processing or provide you with our services;
- Communicate with you via email, mail, or telephone, to provide the services you request and to manage your account;
- Answer your questions and provide customer service;
- Keep copies of any correspondence sent to you in order to provide the products and services you have requested and to measure and improve our customer service;
- Record or monitor phone calls for customer satisfaction purposes;
- Enforce our Terms of Use;

- Learn more about your interest in the products or services we offer and provide you with information;
- Negotiate settlement of your debts (according to the terms and conditions of your written agreements);
- Perform analytics and learn how to improve our products or services;
- Send promotional materials (communications that directly promote the use of Websites, or the purchase of our products or services.). However, you may “opt-out” of certain uses of your personal information.

Other information we collect and use

We may collect other information that cannot be readily used to identify you, such as for example the domain name, IP address of your computer and browser type. We may use this information, which does not identify individual users, individually or in the aggregate, for technical administration of our Website and landing pages; to analyze trends, to track users’ movements around our Website and to gather demographic information about our user base as a whole; research and development; customer and account administration; and to help us focus our marketing efforts more precisely.

Browsing

We do not collect personally identifiable information or other information from your computer when you browse our Website. This means that we will not know your name, your email address, or any other personally identifiable information, unless you voluntarily and knowingly provide us with personally identifiable information.

We may use IP addresses, browser types and access times to analyze trends, administer the site, improve site performance and gather broad demographic information for aggregate use. We also use this information to better understand how visitors use our website and how we can better tune it, its contents and functionality to meet your needs.

Cookies

We use “cookies” on this Website. We may also link information stored in cookies with personally identifiable information that you submitted to us while on our Website and stored on our servers. We may use cookies for reasons including, not limited to:

- Take commercially reasonable precautions to protect the information from loss, misuse and unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration and destruction;
- Analyze our Website traffic using an analytics;
- Test content on the Website;
- Store information about your preferences;
- Recognize you when you return to our Website.

You can choose to accept or decline cookies. If you set up your Web browser (for example, Safari or Firefox) so that cookies are not allowed, you might not be able to use some or all of the features of our Website and you may not be able to take full advantage of our Website. This Privacy Policy covers the use of our cookies only and does not cover the use of cookies by any advertisers.

Links to other Websites

Please note that this Privacy Policy does not govern the collection and use of information by companies that Law Offices of Maryam M. Golbarg, P.C. does not control, nor by individuals not employed or managed by Law Offices of Maryam M. Golbarg, P.C. If you visit a Website that we mention or link to (hyperlinks), be sure to review its privacy policy before providing the site with information, as we do not control such websites and are not responsible for their contents or the privacy or other practices of such websites. Such hyperlinks are provided for reference only. Our inclusion of hyperlinks to such websites does not imply any endorsement of the material on such websites or any association with their operators. This Privacy Policy applies only to information collected by this Website.

External data storage sites

We may store your data on servers provided by third party hosting vendors with whom we have contracted. We employ generally accepted industry standards to protect the personal information submitted to us, both during transmission and once we receive and store it. While we strive to use commercially acceptable means to protect your personal information, we cannot guarantee its absolute security. You can help to maintain the security of your online transactions by not sharing your personal information or password with anyone.

Sharing your information with third parties

We may disclose your personally identifiable information in order to effect or carry out any transaction that you have requested of us or as necessary to complete our contractual obligations with you. We reserve the right to transfer your personal information to third parties for any purpose in our sole discretion.

Notice to Users Outside of the United States

Law Offices of Maryam M. Golbarg, P.C.'s operations are located primarily in the United States. As such, this Privacy Policy cover collection of information on our website from residents of the United States. If you provide information to us from outside the United States, the information will be transferred out, stored and processed in the United States. By providing personal information to us, and using our services, you are consenting to its storage and use as described in this Privacy Policy that may not be as comprehensive as those in your country.

Information collected from children

You must be at least 13 years old to use our Website and services. We do not knowingly collect information from children under 13. Should a child whom we find out to be under 13 years old send personal information to us, we will use that information only to respond directly to that child to inform him or her that they cannot use our Website. If you believe that we have received information from a child or other person who is not of a majority age in their relevant jurisdiction, please contact us and we will take all reasonable efforts to remove the information.

Your privacy responsibilities

To help protect your privacy, be sure:

- Not to share your user ID or password with anyone else;
- To log off our Website when you are finished;

- To take customary precautions to guard against “malware” (viruses, Trojan horses, bots, etc.), for example by installing and updating suitable anti-virus software.

Do not track signals

We currently do not respond to DNT (Do not Track) signals in browsers because we do not track individual users across the web. You can use Do Not Track, which is a preference you can set in your web browser to inform websites that you do not want to be tracked.

Changes to this privacy policy

We reserve the right to change and modify this Privacy Policy at any time without notice, as we deem necessary or appropriate because of legal compliance requirements or changes in our business practices. We encourage you to check our Website frequently to see the current Privacy Policy to be informed of how we are committed to protecting your information and providing you with improved content on our website in order to enhance your online experience. Upon any material changes to the Privacy Policy, we will post those changes to this Privacy Policy, the homepage, and other places we deem appropriate so that you are aware of what information we collect, how we use it, and under what circumstances, if any, we disclose it.

Questions or comments

If you have questions or comments about our Privacy Policy, send an email to contact@mytaxreliefattorney.com, or contact us via any of the ways described in the Contact page at our Website.

Please print and retain a copy of this privacy policy for your records.

Thank you for choosing Law Offices of Maryam M. Golbarg, P.C.!